our young women make a profound impact in the world

Expect Greatness

STONG Values | STRONG Women
SJA students are educated by caring faculty who emphasize progress and personal growth academically, spiritually, socially, physically and morally. Motivating young women to think critically and creatively, while being free to be themselves, is deliberately embedded within our curriculum and extra-curricular options.

The college preparatory curriculum of St. Joseph’s Academy is rigorous by design, with a strong emphasis on the development of values-driven leaders.

Academic courses challenge each student to grow intellectually and to achieve excellence in a broad range of disciplines. Many of the colleges and universities that our students apply to are selective and consistently seek out Angels.

Students experience numerous opportunities to expand their intellectual pursuits.

Our young women may select honors courses in all academic areas. Accelerated classes grant either advanced college credit or prepare students for the Advanced Placement Exam (AP). ACC/ACP courses are offered through Saint Louis University’s 1818 program and through University of Missouri-St. Louis. Students have the potential to graduate with 36 college credits.
We model strong leadership and we expect our students to influence others with knowledge, confidence, compassion and respect.

We take our role as mentors to young women seriously. Our students learn leadership in different ways: through classes, organizations, sports teams, clubs and community events. National Honor Society, Model U.N. and Fellowship of Christian Athletes are among the national organizations in which Angels are involved.

Our girls are encouraged to think independently, to find their voices and to be positive influences on their peers and in their communities.

We highlight the achievements of women in all subjects, and we guide our girls to create their own solutions when they are challenged.
Our Catholic faith is integral to the development of the individual young woman, as well as to the entire school community. We maintain a spiritual environment through prayer, school liturgy, campus ministry, sacraments, retreats and service to others.

We offer a full range of courses in religious studies, which empowers each student to have a spiritual journey in exploring her faith. Personal responsibility, ethical decision-making and integrity are key values. Graduates are well prepared to handle complex issues and questions of adult life through various programs, including the senior Celestine Project.
Holding our young women to high standards is key to our success.

We encourage students to create their best work and to become their most authentic selves. In addition to our strong academic programs, our visual and performing arts curriculum, extracurricular activities and athletic programs are recognized regionally as exceptional.

Every young woman has gifts and abilities waiting to be revealed.

We foster curiosity and invite our students to take risks and experiment intellectually. During the school day we focus on deep learning and personal development. Each girl has countless opportunities to enhance her self-confidence by earning recognition through successes, both large and small.
Our students embrace the core message from Luke’s Gospel: to those whom much is given – much is expected.

Our founders, the Sisters of St. Joseph of Carondelet, instill in each member of our community a desire “to serve the dear neighbor without distinction.”

Foster the Desire to Serve

Many campus activities involve service and volunteering one’s time, talent and treasure.

Mission Week is a yearly event that raises money for the missions of the Sisters of St. Joseph in Peru and Uganda. In addition to local service opportunities, students have been able to “serve the dear neighbor” in New Orleans, Costa Rica and the Dominican Republic.

We provide our students the opportunity to pursue their particular passions.

Together, we create a community of learning where students can develop their abilities and find encouragement and appreciation for their diverse gifts. Many school clubs, teams and activities provide opportunities to explore interests. From forensic science and robotics to web publishing, field hockey, theater and the school newspaper — there is something for everyone.

We believe that the opportunity for participation in interscholastic athletics is an important part of the educational experience.

The Academy provides student-athletes an educationally sound and supportive environment that enables them to acquire the skill, knowledge, leadership, sportsmanship and dedication necessary for personal growth.
Successful and Connected

Our young women develop sensitivity to other cultures and gain the skills needed to work well with others.

Upon graduation, each young woman realizes she uniquely possesses the skills, intellect, faith and leadership to make a profound impact in the world.
